What is an MUN?

- It stands for Model United Nations.
- They are mini conferences that aim to simulate how the real United Nations works.
- You will take on the role of 'delegates' and your goal is to represent your portfolio to the best of your abilities with maximum accuracy.

What is an Executive Board?

- The Executive Board are the people who judge or oversee the committee.
- It usually consists of a chairperson, vice-chairperson and rapporteur in UN committees.

UNSC

Maintains international peace and security by investigating disputes, mediating conflicts, and authorizing sanctions or military action; its 5 permanent members make it the UN's highest-stakes organ.

UNHRC

Promotes and protects human rights worldwide through thematic debates, Universal Periodic Reviews, and country-specific responses.

DISEC

The General Assembly's First Committee, tackling arms regulation, disarmament, and global security threats from nuclear proliferation to illicit arms trade.

IP

A simulated media corps that reports on committee proceedings, interviews delegates, and covers breaking news and press conferences.

AIPPM

Brings together India's political parties to debate national issues, public policy, and governance through democratic dialogue.

INTERPOL

Connects police forces across 196 countries, enabling cross-border communication and data-sharing to fight international crime.

UNCND

It is the UN's primary body for global drug policy. It promotes international cooperation, oversees drug control treaties, and addresses challenges related to illicit drugs, public health, and safety.

UNCSW

ECOSOC's body for advancing gender equality, women's rights, and equal participation across social, economic, and political spheres.

ECOSOC

It promotes international cooperation on economic, social, and sustainable development issues. It coordinates the work of UN agencies and supports global development goals.

FIFA

WHO

FIFA

Football's global governing body, setting international rules and organizing top competitions like the World Cup.

The UN's global health agency, working to expand healthcare access and coordinate responses to health emergencies.

Flow of Debate

The Rules of Procedure — the grammar of committee, from roll call to the final vote.

Roll Call & Setting the Agenda

At the start of each day, the Executive Board takes roll call. When your country is called, you answer in one of two ways:

“Present”

You may abstain on substantive votes.

“Present and Voting”

You must vote yes or no on every substantive matter — no abstaining.

NEXT STEP

Set the Agenda

Once roll call is done, a delegate raises a motion to set the agenda — the formal act that opens debate on the committee’s topic.

Two Modes of Debate

FORMAL DEBATE

General Speakers List

The structured backbone of committee. Delegates address the floor in turn, one after another, on the agenda at large.

One continuous, ordered list of speakers.

INFORMAL DEBATE

Caucuses

Looser, faster discussion — entered by motion when the committee wants to focus or negotiate.

1. Moderated
2. Unmoderated

The General Speakers List (GSL)

- 01 A continuous, inexhaustible list of speakers — it runs until the committee closes it.
- 02 Speeches may address any part of the agenda, not one narrow sub-topic.
- 03 Add yourself by raising your placard or sending a chit; you may speak many times, but not queue twice at once.
- 04 Speaking time is set by motion — typically 60, 90, or 120 seconds.

VERBATIM

“The Delegate of India moves to open the General Speakers’ List, allotting 90 seconds to each speaker.”

Yields

Finished your GSL speech with time left? You must yield it. Four choices:

To the Executive Board

Time is absorbed or used at the EB's discretion.

To Points of Information

Open the floor to questions from other delegates.

To Another Delegate

Gift your remaining time to a fellow delegate.

To Comments

Invite brief comments on the speech you just made.

Moderated & Unmoderated Caucuses

Moderated

Short, focused speeches on a specific sub-topic, called on by the EB. The motion must state a topic, total duration, and per-speaker time .

“...moves to suspend formal debate and begin a moderated caucus on short-term solutions, total time 10 minutes, 30 seconds each.”

Unmoderated

Delegates move freely to network, form alliances, and draft resolutions — no speaking order, no per-speaker clock.

“The Delegate of India moves to suspend formal debate and move into an unmoderated caucus of 15 minutes.”

Motions

A motion moves the committee from one part of the flow of debate to another. Every motion is voted on — it passes only with the required majority, and must follow set verbatim.

“The Delegate of India moves to suspend the session and break for lunch for 30 minutes.”

Order of Disruption

The most disruptive (longest / most time-consuming) motion is considered first.

Order of Precedence

Motions of equal disruptiveness are taken in the order they were raised.

Points of Procedure

Point of Inquiry

Ask about procedure or proceedings. Answered by the EB; cannot interrupt a speaker.

Point of Order

Flag a procedural error by the dais, or a factual/logical inaccuracy by a delegate.

Point of Personal Privilege

The only point that can interrupt a speaker — for personal discomfort (e.g. inaudibility).

Point of Information

A question directed to the speaker during formal debate (or via chit in informal).

FLOW OF DEBATE

Chits

Chits are the mode of non-verbal communication during formal session — passed by the Organizing Committee.

Informal Chits

Sent directly between delegates — just name the sender and recipient.

Formal Chits

Anything needing the EB's attention is routed through the Executive Board.

COMMON CHITS

Points of Information

“Point of Order”

“Reply to POI”

Voting

ON MOTIONS

Procedural Vote

A simple call on procedure — you cannot abstain.

Yes

No

ON RESOLUTIONS & AMENDMENTS

Substantive Vote

The full range of options — your roll-call answer decides whether you may abstain.

Yes

No

Abstain

Draft Resolutions

WHAT IT IS

The main outcome document of committee — a formal list of the solutions and undertakings a bloc proposes to solve the agenda.

Every draft is built from preambulatory clauses that set the context and operative clauses that take action.

KEY POINTS

- 01 Numbered on arrival. The Executive Board numbers each draft in the order it is received.
- 02 Backed by delegates. It needs the required sponsors and signatories before it can be introduced.
- 03 Draft until passed. Adopting it by vote makes it the committee's official resolution.

Sponsors & Signatories

Sponsors

The principal authors who contributed to the draft substantively.

They agree with its substance.

They present and defend the document to the committee.

Signatories

Delegates who wish to see the document debated — they need not agree with it.

A minimum share of committee must sign for it to be accepted.

They may propose amendments to the draft.

Preambulatory & Operative Clauses

Preambulatory

Set the context and justify the resolution — they take no action. Not numbered, and they end with a comma.

OPENERS

Affirming, Alarmed by, Guided by, Believing, Having heard, Convinced

Operative

The action — directives that solve the agenda. Numbered, ending in semicolons; the last ends with a period.

OPENERS

Calls upon, Requests, Affirms, Considers, Confirms, Further invites

DOCUMENTATION

Amendments

BY ACTION

Addition

Add a new clause to the resolution.

Deletion

Remove an existing clause.

Modification

Change the wording of a clause.

BY NATURE

Friendly

All sponsors agree — incorporated into the document without debate.

Unfriendly

Even one sponsor objects — put to a vote; a committee majority can still pass it.

Good luck,
delegates.
